Argument Against San Carlos School District Parcel Tax Measure

Measure ___ proponents say they want to “retain qualified and experienced teachers.”

They imply that if we don’t pass this tax increase, we will lose teachers to other districts in San Mateo County. Is that true?

Let’s compare salaries of San Carlos School District with another, comparable district in our county: Burlingame School District.

Nearly all San Carlos School District salaries are higher! Sounds like the proponents fear that our most “qualified and experienced” teachers will abandon their positions for lower-paying jobs elsewhere in the County.

Do you share their fear?

But surely, the higher salaries here are producing superior academic results. Right?

Again, let’s compare:

In 2011-12,\(^{(2)}\) Burlingame School District’s and our students’ levels nearly matched.

But it cost Burlingame much less:

San Carlos School District is spending over 12% more ($9,292/year!) per student\(^{(3)}\) than Burlingame—for virtually the same results.

Yet they think they deserve a tax increase.

Do you agree with them?
Meantime, although the District is spending $9,292 per student, their revenues are $9,517 per student.

So, they’re letting $225/year per student go unused?

Instead of asking us to tax ourselves even more, they should issue us refunds!

Clearly, more money doesn’t equal higher test scores or better education.

Restore financial sanity to our schools! Vote NO on Measure __.
