Rebuttal to Argument Against Measure V

Our parks and open space make San Carlos a special place to live. A Yes vote on Measure V answers one critical question: do we want a park on Black Mountain, or 100 more homes and traffic?

Measure V gives us the rare opportunity to permanently protect beautiful open space right in the path of development in the nation's hottest region for real estate—an investment in maintaining the neighborhood balance we value in San Carlos. Not a penny more than what voters authorize can be spent, and less if possible. Funds can only be used to create a park on Black Mountain.

We must act now to protect San Carlos' few remaining natural areas before they are gone forever. Long-time San Carlos residents and senior citizens are among many community members working hard to pass Measure V because this is an important legacy for future generations. They know that if we do nothing, Black Mountain is sure to be filled with private homes. If we preserve it permanently, this is a shared investment our community will make to enjoy the park in years to come.

A project this important should be community-led, which is why Measure V states that the new Black Mountain Park will be designed in an open, transparent process that includes San Carlos volunteers.

The choice is ours. If you would choose tranquil walking paths, trails and recreation in a new park on Black Mountain rather than 100 additional homes and worse traffic, vote Yes on Measure V.
